To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to submit a formal complaint about a CO mental health professional, whom I have never met, yet she felt compelled to slander and defame me in court documents without providing any proof of her fabricated and false allegations. In doing so, she clearly and blatantly disregarded all ethical standards of mental health professionals.

This person is:

Loretta A. Hansen-Higa
8120 Sheridan Blvd. C-209
Westminster, CO 80030
(720) 540-0536 phone
(720) 540-0535 fax

I have enclosed a copy of the slanderous and fabricated comments she made about me in a court document and I have enclosed a copy of the resulting investigation, which proved that her false and fabricated allegations were fantasy and unfounded. Highlighted areas are the areas of interest.

I am in the process of filing a slander and defamation suit against her, as I have hard evidence that she lied and fabricated her opinion and was slanderous in doing so. She knew her false allegations would lead to an investigation and so she knew what she was doing. If she were at all ethical in any way she would have contacted me, met me and talked to me to know the situation. I.e. My ex spouse and myself have been in a four yearlong custody battle, it would make sense to investigate the background of the situation before making false claims about complete strangers.

We had already gone through three parental evaluations up to the date of her false allegations, so she should have read that there were already no findings of any sexual misconduct from both parties.

Is your board not concerned that all mental health professionals are allowed to make up fictional accounts and unsubstantiated opinions about complete strangers? I have never met Mrs. Hansen-Higa, nor have I ever corresponded with her in any way. I didn't even know she was seeing my daughter, which is also another concerning scenario. Shouldn't parents of children be informed and have consent from both parents for all mental health care?

Isn't it unethical to present a professional opinion about a non-client? This is extremely concerning, as I certainly could not state my opinion about her or any stranger whom I have never met without providing any proof of my allegations. In short, if this board does not do something to correct her behavior, then this board is being unethical and disregarding unethical behavior over individuals whom they oversee.

If this is an okay standard, then I could have assumed that she inappropriately touched our daughter during her sessions with her, but I know that saying something like this is not appropriate in any way shape or form.

Sincerely,

Troy Kramer
